

READ AND REVEAL

A super fun way to read CVC words!

By The Reading Bungalow

Read and Reveal

This engaging activity is perfect for small groups or your literacy centers. Students will read CVC words and then fold up the paper to reveal a picture underneath to see if they've read the word correctly.

Directions: Print out and copy the two matching pages one to two sided on cardstock. (I gave you the choice of colored or black & white images. Decide which you will use and then copy one to two sided with the word page.) Then fold the paper lengthwise down the middle of the paper. Next, cut along the dotted lines until you reach the fold in the middle of the paper. After I've made all the cuts, I then go back and fold the crease one more time to make sure it's really flat. I store them upside down so the cut side doesn't flip up too easily while the students are working with it.

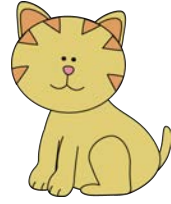

Have your students read one CVC word at a time and once they've blended the word have them lift the word and the picture will be revealed underneath.

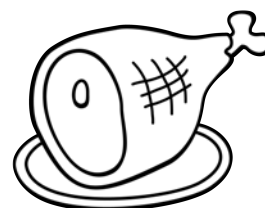

This is what the paper will look like once it is copied, folded and cut up.

Here is an example of a student using it. They read the first word and once they've blended it they flip the word and reveal the picture underneath. Have students hold the rest of the words down with their other hand so the pictures aren't revealed too soon.

Read and Reveal!

c	a	t
---	---	---

j	a	m
---	---	---

c	a	p
---	---	---

b	a	t
---	---	---

m	a	p
---	---	---

h	a	m
---	---	---

c	a	b
---	---	---